- 9. Detailed description of the event:

The Environment is our basic life support system and is composed of living beings, physical surroundings, and climatic conditions. It is derived from a French word, “Environner”, which means “to surround”. The term environment includes all biotic and abiotic entities around us. Biotic refers to the world of living organisms, whereas Abiotic refers to the world of non-living elements. The Environment provides us with the essential elements – air, water, food, and land which are essential for life to flourish on the Earth. On 5th July Malayanma the association of Malayalam Department organised Paristhithidinacharanam. The Programme was inaugurated by Principal Dr.T H Jitha and gave message on environment and its significance. In connection with the environment day department conducted recitation competition for the students of LP ,UP classes in online mode . The students of LP,UP classes recorded a poem based on environment and send to department email id. Cash prizes are issued to winners.
