Mentoring Report

Class [REDACTED]

Academic Year: 2022-23

The mentoring report is based on the observations and feedback of each student. Most of the students' academic and attendance performance were good except for two students.

During mentoring conducted in Semester 1, One student faced difficulties in concentration. Recommended her to seek help from the counseling cell for guidance on improving focus and study habits. Another student was there, whose health issues might have impacted her performance. Encouraged her to prioritize her health while also dedicating more time and effort to study harder. During second mentoring, all the students improved their performance. Those who scored less mark in internal exam are advised to work hard.

In Semester 2, progress was there for all the students but noted the need for more effort and dedication. Provided them with study strategies and supported to help them become more hardworking and achieve better outcomes.

Regular follow-ups and communication with the students contributed significantly to their academic success.
