The important gymnosperms collected were Pinus, Cuppressus, Podocarpus, Araucaria.

Kodaikanal is a small hilly town located on Palani Hills of Western Ghats in the Dindigul district about 7001 ft above from mean sea level. It is sandwiched between the Parappar and Gundar Valleys and largely covered with thick forest of Eucalyptus, cypress, acacia and Shola Trees. Kodaikanal is one of the most famous hill stations in India due to its beautiful scenic view. This town is an address of many adventurous forests, enhancing waterfalls and ubiquitous grassland like a green carpet lying on the earth and lots of lovely flower. A special type of flower name kurinji is very famous as it blossoms only once in twelve years. Kodaikanal Hill Station is a destination where you can make a trip in any time or any season throughout the year due to its persistent lovely pleasant weather. Summer season (March to June) is better than winter in Kodaikanal Town. During this season temperature level varies from 12°C to 22°C. PINUS

- They are evergreen, perennial lofty trees with spirally growing branches which give pyramidal or conical appearance.
- The stem is erect and cylindrical and is covered with bark.
- There are two types of branches: the long shoot of unlimited growth and dwarf shoot of limited growth.
- The long shoot bears apical bud and grows indefinitely with many scaly leaves.
- Leaves are dimorphic: the long green needle shaped foliage leaves and small, brown, membranous scale leaves.

- Scale leaves are thin and brownish in color which is developed only on long as well as dwarf shoots while the foliage leaves are large, needle-like and found only at the apex of the dwarf shoots.

CUPPRESSUS

- Cupressus is one of several genera within the family Cupressaceae that have the common name cypress; for the others, see cypress.
- Leaves opposite decussate
- Pollen cones with 4-10 pairs of sporophylls, each sporophyll with 3-10 pollen sacs.
- Seed cones were developed terminally all over the crown on 1-2 cm long short shoots carrying 2-4 pairs of scale leaves
- Female cone are small and dry, male cone are small and seen in the tip of the branches.

PODOCARPUS

- Podocarpus is a genus of conifers, the most numerous and widely distributed of the podocarp family, Podocarpaceae.
- Podocarpus are evergreen shrubs or trees, usually from 1 to 25 metres tall, known to reach 40 metres at times.
- The leaves are simple, flattened and may be sessile or short petiolate. The phyllotaxis or leaf arrangement is spiral and may be subopposite on some shoots.
- Leaves alternate, linear to ovate, usually with a single midvein and rarely with parallel veins; leaves bear resin canals, but wood does not. Primary branching in pseudo-whorls
- Pollen cones axillary, cylindrical, with triangular microsporophylls, solitary and sessile, or clustered on short sessile or long-pedunculate stalks

ARAUCARIA

- Araucaria is a genus of evergreen coniferous trees in the family Araucariaceae.
- Evergreen, mostly dioecious trees with regularly whorled branches. Buds inconspicuous.

- Young trees branched to the ground, old trees with a long clear bole and flattened crown.
- Juvenile leaves needle-like, thin, loosely imbricate, spirally arranged. Adult leaves usually scale-like or sometimes needle-like, spirally arranged or nearly 2-ranked, usually closely imbricate, overlapping, flattened.
- Male cones terminal and solitary or disposed in clusters, with numerous spirally arranged stamens, anthers 6-8 celled.
- Female cones globose, ripening in 2-3 years, heavy, milky; scales usually with thin spiny apical umbos, scales thin and somewhat flattened, cones dehiscent at maturity.

9. Detailed description of the event: Extension activities are one of the most engaging activities of the academic community. To stretch out to the society with a helping hand is a noble deed indeed. A faculty who is socially committed goes beyond the scholarly texts and dedicates one's self to this honorable act. Aware of these facts, The Department of English took a few initiatives in this direction. Staff and Students alike, with a single mind, assembled to chart out some projects. Brilliant ideas that could be implemented emerged. We are proud to report our activities that were carried out with extraordinary accuracy. The most challenging task in the first phase was to identify and select efficient, confident students who could be sent to Lower Primary classes of nearby schools. The selection process of these student teachers itself was tough due to stiff competition. Student response for the assignment was enthusiastic and inspiring. Student trainers were given the duty of providing Basic English sessions for Primary pupils in the neighboring schools. There was much teaching, learning, fun and enjoyment during these training sessions. The trainees then, with the permission of concerned authorities, presented themselves as young teachers in S N M L P S, Maliankara, every week for nearly three months from June 2019 to August 2019. After August 2019, the sessions were conducted every month till November 2019. In a similar pattern, a group of our students arranged a Communicative English class for the pupils of the second, third and fourth standards of S N Government L P School, Thurithippuram. The experience gained from these collective exercises was productive and enriching. Highly motivated, the faculty and students are eager to continue the practice in the coming years too.

10. Outcome of the event/Evaluation by Program Coordinator: Class was very effective in building language skills among students.

4. Date : 26th February 2020

5. Number of participants: 35

6. Venue: B.Sc Physics Lab

7. Resource Person: Mr. Sabir, Operator Engineer, KSEB, Malappuram

8. Objective of the programme :

1. To train the students in assembling and repairing LED bulbs and thus help them become trainers who can subsequently train others to become self reliant in the field of energy efficiency.

2. To make people realize the importance of energy saving devices such as the use of LED bulbs in their daily lives.

9. Detailed description of the event:

Workshop on LED bulb making was conducted by Department of Physics in association with NSS unit of SNMC on 26th February 2020 at B.Sc Physics Lab at 10:00 am. Mr. Sunil Kumar C P, Assistant Professor, Department of Physics was the programme coordinator. The workshop is conducted as an extension activity as part of village adoption program. The resource person, Mr. Sabir, operator engineer, KSEB, Malappuram handled the training session. Students, faculties, kudumbasree workers and public were the target participants. Students were given training on the manufacture and repair of LED bulbs. All the participants learnt the use of the electronic tools like soldering iron, soldering wax, soldering wire, Diode, Resistance, Capacitor, PCB etc. They made more than 50 low-cost seven watt LED bulbs and these LED bulbs were sold among staff and other local people for free. There were nearly 35 participants.

10. Outcome of the event/Evaluation by programme Coordinator: The technical session on LED bulb manufacturing and repairing was very effective in creating awareness on using LED bulbs as part of energy conservation. The resource person explained various electronic & electrical components, materials, and their specific properties & usages. He also explained the special safety and handling precautions to be taken during LED luminary testing. The theoretical session and the hands on training session under the resource person were very useful for the students. They actively participated in the session and cleared their doubts with the resource person. The course developed an entrepreneurial mindset among the students. It also boosted the skill development credibility and improved the ability of the students in repairing electrical components used in day-to-day life. At the end of the training session, students were able to assemble and repair an LED bulb on their own. Participants evaluated the session as an informative and effective learning experience.
